FREE IMPROVISATION TRIO

Bern, Switzerland

Acoustic drums and voice feed into a no-input mixing desk, whose feedback loop returns them transformed. The result is a fourth presence inside the trio — a system that answers back, and refuses to be played the same way twice. i!i!o builds its music entirely in real time, moving between long sustained states and sudden reversals.

THE TRIO

Gideok Moon

drums

Drummer and improviser from Seoul, based in Bern, active in Korea's free improvisation scene. Releases include the solo album Alla Prima (2022) and Mealworm (2025) on Mung Music. Bachelor in Music, Department of Post-Modern Music, Kyung Hee University. Master in Music Performance, Jazz and Contemporary Music, HKB Bern.

Tobias Rüetschi

no-input mixing desk

Musician and artist based in Bern and Winterthur. Works with no-input mixing and sonic DIY techniques, treating noise as material and the creative misuse of technology as method. Studied fine arts in Zurich; currently pursuing an artistic research PhD in music in Bern and Freiburg.

Jessie Chen

voice

Vocalist and sound artist from Taiwan, based in Europe. Works across extended vocal technique, contemporary music theatre and sound art. Studied at the Hochschule für Musik Carl Maria von Weber Dresden, currently on an exchange year at HKB Bern.

TECHNICAL

The trio travels with its own mixing board (repurposed as a no-input instrument), patch cables, limiter, and three microphones with stands. From the venue we ask for PA and monitors suitable for the room, plus a drum kit (house kit welcome, flexible setup). Set length is flexible, 30–60 minutes.
